There are always going to be bumps and pot holes in the road. Glauser is spot on when he says that keeping your purpose in focus is the most important thing to get you to the finish line."

"The people I meet who are not executives all dream of starting their own company. But they don't because they don't know how and can't see themselves in the lore of multi-billion dollar success. Finally, the masses have a roadmap to attain a more Main Street success."

—Mark Cook, Director of O.C. Tanner Institute, author of Sales Blazers, Adjunct Professor of Entrepreneurship

"I started my first business at age 15 and have run my sixth for almost 30 years now. Oh, what heartache and sleepless nights I could have saved myself if I had only had Michael Glauser's insightful book from the beginning! What a fun and easy read to experience his cycling adventure right along with the interesting and wise people he met on his bold journey! I recommend this book big time."

—Wendy Keller, Author of Secrets of Successful Negotiation for Women

"While many of us tend to think about entrepreneurship in "Shark Tank" terms, most startups are local businesses created to serve a local need. This book is an excellent and inspirational primer for would-be entrepreneurs who don't seem themselves as the next Zuckerberg."

—Geoffrey James, Contributing Editor, Inc.com
